Thanks, Bruce.

Two levels of review of the questionnaires and nomenclature will be very helpful:

1. Top-level review to ensure that the structure and contents will be able to capture the information needed to advance our objective to compile and curate competency-based One Health training activities in the university networks. For examples:

- Have we included all the possible ways that training is currently being delivered to communities, pre-service students, faculty, and in-service professionals?
- Have we included all pertinent questions to ensure that we can rate progress toward institutionalization of the training programs in universities; and the accreditation of such programs by professional organizations?
- Have we included all pertinent questions to ensure that we can continuously rate the capacity of the network secretariats to support institutionalization and accreditation of One Health training programs?
- Have we included in the draft glossary, all terms and phrases related to One Health training and empowerment, and is there consensus on the definitions, so that we generate both qualitative and quantitative estimates of training activities in the curated outcome. For example, the terms “module”, “course”, “domain”, “competencies”, “proficiency” should mean the same thing across universities engaged in OH training both in AFROHUN and SEAOHUN.

2. The second level of review is more about the details, for example to make sure that the questions are framed clearly for the general respondent, and will not be misunderstood. That the format of presentation is appropriate - ultimately we want the questionnaires to be presented through the internet, and the data collected will be accessible to both secretariats and the global consortium.

I have requested feedback from our workgroup by close of business this week Friday.

Next week, we are planning to visit AFROHUN, and I hope to update the Tables with your feedback before I present these Tables to the secretariat staff.

I hope these responses are helpful in conducting the reviews.

- Dele

Dear Dele, Can you please clarify what kind of review and feedback would be most helpful of these tables and the deadline. Thx! B
